

In this bachelor thesis we are examining lemmas “nebe” and “země” in the Czech National Corpus. The thesis consists of two parts: theoretical and practical. The theoretical part is focused on explaining the terms of basic lexical units, lemmas and collocations. Beyond that, it contains a brief description of phraseology and idiomatics and introduction to the Czech National Corpus. The practical part contains the materials obtained in the search in dictionaries and in the corpus, its comparative analysis and more detailed description of data founded in the corpus.
