

The main task of this bachelor's thesis is translation and interpretation of Marcus Tullius Cicero's letters addressed to Marcus Terentius Varro from 46 to 45 BC. Apart from the translation and interpretation, it briefly concentrates on the period, in which letters were written, on life, literary works and relationship of both men and on the differences of accentuations in published commentaries.